LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.

A Weekly Magazine of sixty-four pages, The Living Age gives more than Three and a quarter thousand double column octavo pages of reading matter yearly, forming four large volumes. It presents in an expensive form, considering its great amount of matter, with freshness, owing to its weekly issue, with a satisfactory completeness attempted by no other publication, the best Essays, Reviews, Criticisms, Tales, Poetry, Scientific, Biographical, Historical, and Political Information, from the entire body of Foreign Periodical Literature. A NEW SERIES was begun Jan. 1, 1873, with entirely new Tales, already embracing Serial and Short Stories by distinguished English, French, German, and Russian authors; viz : Lord Lytton (Bulwer), Erckman-Chatrion, Ivan Turguenieff, Miss Thackeray, Mrs. Oliphant, Fritz Reuter, Mrs. Parr (author of "Dorothy Fox"), Julia Kavanaugh, etc.

During the coming year, as heretofore, the choicest serial and short stories by the leading Foreign authors will be given, together with an amount unapproached by any other periodical in the world, of the best literary and scientific matter of the day, from the pens of the above named and other foremost Essayists, Scientists, Critics, Discoverers, and Editors, representing every department of knowledge and progress.

The importance of THE LIVING AGE to every American reader, as is the only complete as well as fresh compilation of a generally inaccessible but indispensible current literature,—indispensable because it embraces the productions of the ablest living writers in all branches of Literature, Science, Art, and Politics,—is sufficiently indicated by the following OPINIONS :

"Reproduces the best thoughts of the best minds of the civilized world, upon all topics of living interest."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

"In no other single publication can there be found so much of sterling literary excellence."—N. Y. Evening Post.

"The best of all our eclectic publications."—The Nation, New York.

"In view of all the competitors in the field, I should certainly choose 'The Living Age.' "—Rev. Henry Ward Beecher.

The Pittsburgh GAZETTE, Daily and Weekly. Oldest, Largest, Cheapest and Best, Leading Reliable Republican Newspaper, The paper for the Farmer, Mechanic, Merchant, Manufacturer, Banker, Professional Man and the Fireside.

The general character of the Pittsburg GAZETTE is too well established to need recapitulation. The reader has known it as one of the great newspapers of the country, ever Republican in opinion, independent in character, and yielding to none in its efforts to obtain the news and present the same to its readers in the most attractive shape.

The intelligent public has looked favorably upon our efforts in maintaining the high character of the GAZETTE, and to-day, in respect to circulation, material prosperity and influence, it stands at the front rank of the Republican press.

What the distinguished features of the Pittsburg GAZETTE have been in the past are a sufficient guarantee for its conduct in the future.

It will continue, as it ever has done, to advocate the cause of the people, without reference to the interest of individuals.

Our great care will be to make it a better paper than ever. Our means for obtaining all important news are as complete as those of any other journal in the country, and we shall not spare energy or expense to employ them.

In political matters, crop and market reports, and in the whole field of general and local intelligence, the GAZETTE will be found fully alive to the demands of each day in the year.

PITTSBURG DAILY GAZETTE will provide its readers with the latest and most reliable telegraphic news, timely editorials on all important subjects, and intelligent comments on passing events, whether religious or secular, political or civil.

During the sessions of Congress, and the Legislature special correspondents at Washington and Harrisburg will group in attractive form the salient features of their proceedings.

The highest aim of journalism is now the speedy and correct transmission of news in all its important details. The GAZETTE accepts this as the only limit of its enterprise.

It tells of the commerce and finance of the world; the grain, produce, live stock and money markets at home and abroad, and the manufacturing and mining interests of the entire country.

PITTSBURG WEEKLY GAZETTE is emphatically a paper for the people—and essentially a family newspaper, containing, as it does, a complete summary of the latest and of all the important news from all parts of the world; a number of editorials on current topics; a carefully selected and interesting miscellany; valuable matter for the farmer, merchant, mechanic, and housewife; the latest and most reliable Live Stock and Crop reports; a Financial and Commercial column—long known as most complete, and more reliable than that of any other paper published in the west; which, with the especial attention always given to the progress and the rapid development of the resources of the country cannot but make the PITTSBURG WEEKLY GAZETTE a most welcome visitor to every fireside. It will at all times prove itself indispensible alike to the farm, household, workshop and store, and is undoubtedly the very best paper for the farmer, for the mechanic and for all who live in localities which are served only by weekly mails.

Pen and Sword.

BY THE BARD OF THE MOUNTAIN.

Turning o'er a dusty volume,
Filled with gems from Sage and Bard,
I beheld this quaint old adage :
"The pen is mightier than the sword."

Then my fancy drew a picture;
'Mid a dungeon's murky gloom
Lay a prisoner, sad and lonely,
Longing for the cannon's boom.

To a man of power and talent
Was conveyed the saddening news,
Soon he sought the galling fetters
From the prisoner's limbs to loose.

By his pen he quickly fired
Every freedom-loving soul,
Soon there moved a gallant army,
Did the Sage assume control?

No. His part was done, another
Lightning flashed from out his eye—
Led to victory the army—
Gave the captive liberty.

Who was greater, Sage or Soldier?
Which was mightier, Pen or Sword?
Pen may prompt a host to action,
Paint the hero's great reward;

But if by the sword unaided,
Conquest pen may never win;
Pen may fight a bloodless battle,
Sword must bring insurgents in.

When the long foretold millenium,
On our sin-cursed earth shall dawn,
Robbing men of fiendish passions,
Pen may wear the victor's crown.

The Story-Teller.

The Patriot and the Traitor.

Sixty-four years ago a terrible storm shocked the city of London. At the dead of night, when the storm was at its highest, an aged minister, living near the suburbs of the city, was aroused by an earnest cry for help. Looking from his window he beheld a rude man clad in the coarse attire of a sweeper of the street. In a few moments, while the rain came down in torrents and the storm growled above, the preacher, leaning on the arm of the scavenger, threaded his way through the dark suburbs.

That very day a strange man had fallen speechless in front of the scavenger's rude home. The good-hearted street-sweeper had taken him in and laid him on his own bed; he had not spoken since and now he was dying.

This was the story of the rough old man.

And now through dark alleys, among miserable tenements, that seemed to topple down upon their heads, into the loneliest suburbs they pass, that white-haired minister and his guide. At last in a narrow street and up a flight of stairs that creaked beneath their tread, and then into the death-room.

In one corner, on coarse straw and a ragged bed, lay the dying man. He was but half-dressed—his legs were concealed by military boots.

The aged preacher drew near and looked upon him. And as he looked you might hear the death-watch ticking in the shattered wall.

It was the form of the strange man, grown old with care more than age.

There was a face you might look on once and yet wear it on your memory forever. Let us bend over the bed, and look on that face.

A bold forehead, seamed by one deep wrinkle between the brows—long locks of dark hair, sprinkled with gray, lips firmly set, yet quivering as though they had a life separate from the life of man, and two large eyes, vivid, burning and unnatural in their steady glare.

Ah, there was something so terrible in that face, something so full of unutterable loneliness, unspeakable despair—that the aged minister started back in horror.

But look! those arms are clutching at the vacant air, the death dew starts in drops upon the cold brow—the man is dying.

Throb—throb—throb—beats the death watch in the shattered wall.

'Would you die in the faith of a Christian?" faltered the preacher, as he knelt there on the floor.

The white lips of the death-stricken man trembled, but made no sound.

Then, with agony of death upon him, he rose to a sitting posture. For the first time he spoke.

"Christian!" he echoed, in that deep tone which thrilled the preacher to the heart. "Will that faith give me back my honor? Come with me—with me far, far over the water. Ha! we are there! This is my native home; yonder is the church in which I knelt in childhood; yonder is the green on which I sported when a boy. But another flag than that waved when I was a child. And listen, old man, were I to pass this street as I passed it when but a child, the very babes in their cradles would raise their tiny hands and curse me; the graves in yonder church-yard would shrink from my footsteps, and yonder flag would stain a baptism of blood on my heart."

That was an awful death-bed. The minister had watched the "last night" with a hundred convicts in their cells, and yet never beheld a scene as terrible as this.

Suddenly the dying man arose. He tottered along the floor. With those white fingers, whose nails are blue with death-chill, he threw open the valise. He showed his military coat, trimmed with silver; an old parchment, a piece of cloth that looked like the wreck of a battle flag.

"Look ye, priest, this faded coat is spotted with my blood!" he cried, as old memories seemed stirring him. "This is the last coat that I wore when I planted the banner of the stars on Ticonderoga. The bullet hole was pierced in the fight at Quebec; now I am—let me whisper it in your ear."

"Now, help me, priest," he said, in a voice grown suddenly tremulous; "help me put on this coat of blue and silver. For you see,"—and a ghastly smile came over his face—"there is no one to wipe the cold drops from my brow; no wife, no child—I must meet death alone; but I will meet him, as I met him in battle, without fear."

While he stood arraying himself in that worm-eaten coat of blue and silver, the good preacher spoke to him of faith in Jesus; yes, of that great faith which pierces the clouds of human guilt and rolls them from the face of God.

"Faith!" echoed the strange man, who stood there erect, with the death-light in his eye. "Faith! Can it give me back my honor? Look ye, there, over the waves, sits George Washington, telling his comrades the pleasant story of the eight years war; there in his royal hall sits King George, bewailing, in his idiotic voice, the loss of his colonies. And here am I who was the first to raise the flag of freedom, the first to strike the blow against that King—here am I dying like a dog."

The awe-stricken preacher started back from the look of the dying man, while throb, throb, beat the death-watch in the wall.

"Hush! Silence along the lines there," he muttered in that wild, absent manner, as though speaking to the dead, "silence along the lines! Hark you! Montgomery! we will meet there in victory or death. Hist! silence my men; not a whisper as you move up those steep rocks! Men of the wilderness, we will gain the town; now up with the banner of the stars, up with the flag of freedom, though the night is dark and the snow falls! Now!" yelled the death-stricken man, towering there in the blue uniform, with his clenched hands waving in the air, "now one blow and Quebec is ours!"

His eyes grew glassy; with that word on his lips he stands there. O! what a hideous picture of despair, erect, livid and ghastly! There for a moment, and then fell. He is dead, ah, look at that proud form thrown cold and stiff upon the damp floor; in that glassy eye there lingers even yet horrible energy, a sublimity of despair.

Who is this strange man, dying here alone in this rude garret, this man who in all his crime still treasured up his blue uniform and faded flag.

Who is this being of terrible remorse; this man whose memories link something of heaven and more of hell.?

Let us look at the parchment and flag.

The old minister unfolded the faded flag. It was a blue banner, gleaming with thirteen stars.

He unrolls the parchment; it is a Colonel's commission in the Continental Army, addressed, "BENEDICT ARNOLD."

And there in that rude hut. while the death-watch throbbed like a heart in the shattered wall, unknown, unwept, in all the bitterness of desolation, lay the corpse of the patriot and traitor.

O, that our true Washington had been there to sever that good right arm from the corpse and, while the dishonorable body rotted into dust, to bring home that good arm and embalm it among the holiest memories of the past.

For that right arm had struck many a blow for Quebec, Champlain and Saratoga, that arm, yonder beneath the snow-white mountain, on the deep silence of the dead first raised into sight the glorious banner of the stars.

It was during the renowned expedition through the wilderness that Arnold encamped for two or three days beside the River of the Dead, near a snow-white mountain, which in lovely grandeur towered above all others into the autumnal sky.—A single soldier ascended the mountain, with the hope of beholding from the summit the rocks and spires of Quebec.

When he came down, Arnold took from his breast, where for four days, in privation and danger he carried it, a blue banner gleaming with thirteen stars. He raised it into the light, and for the first time the Continental Banner floated over the solitudes of the Dead River. This is a fact attested by history and corroborated by tradition.

Senator Carpenter.

We are not aware that Senator Carpenter intends to take any step in regard to the slander set on foot against him by an enemy last Summer. He could scarcely bring a libel suit in which the only issue would be in regard to the character of a lady. This difficulty was doubtless well considered beforehand by the correspondent of the Tribune, a man named Ramsdell, who concocted the original slander, and by his "editor," who repeats it with the full knowledge that it is false.

We have refrained from commenting upon this affair, believing that after the slander had had its run, it would die and be forgotten. But the habitual slanderer of the Tribune seems to be determined to "have it out" with Senator Carpenter, who happened to get a Tribune correspondent locked up a year or two ago. For this the so-called editor of the Tribune has sworn a deadly revenge. He and his correspondent have therefore, we repeat, deliberately invented a disgusting calumny about Senator Carpenter—a calumny of the kind which every man finds it hard to meet, because he cannot meet it without calling a lady into a public controversy. This fact was duly calculated on by a person at the Tribune; we all remember how clever and brave he was in attacking the President's wife and children. He is capable of inventing any vile slander, as the columns of his journal in the past fully prove. The story about Senator Carpenter is hatched solely in his own imagination, as we expect to prove to the satisfaction of every intelligent man in the country.

The true facts have been known to us for some time. The husband of the lady, who, for very natural reasons, desires not to bring his wife's name before the public, and therefore does not wish to publish anything under his own signature, some time since called on us and informed us that the charge was utterly false, and requested us, in case the slander was kept up, to publish a statement of the facts.—It is not a business we care to go into—it suits the Tribune scandelmongers much better. But we will relate the facts, and then we will deal on another occasion with Senator Carpenter's assailant.

Mr. Carpenter went during the Summer to Long Branch, having an appointment with the President on business. He was accompanied by the lady in question, who was put in his charge by her husband.—Arriving there about 5 in the afternoon, he went directly to the West End Hotel and applied for rooms, and was informed by the clerk that there was not a vacant room in the house, and had not been for several days. The clerk and Mr. Carpenter were well acquainted, the clerk having been formerly in Willard's Hotel, Washington, where Mr. Carpenter and his family had boarded two years. The clerk gave Mr. Carpenter a note of introduction to the Ocean House, and he went there and obtained a room for the lady and one for himself At 7 o'clock he took tea at the President's and spent the evening with President Grant until about 9:30. He then returned to the hotel; where several gentlemen called on him, in whose company he remained until about 12 o'clock, and returned to New York the next morning.

Ramsdell—a correspondent of the Tribune, who was imprisoned about two years ago by the Senate on Mr. Carpenter's motion, for contempt in refusing to testify in regard to the stolen treaty, and who vowed vengeance on Mr. Carpenter at that time, and seems to have watched for an opportunity to retaliate for what he regarded as an injury—was stopping at the West End Hotel. He at once repaired to the telegraph office and sent a dispatch to the Tribune, saying that Senator Carpenter had arrived at Long Branch, and had been refused a room at the hotel, "for reasons best known to himself and the proprietor of the hotel."

This telegram suggested a base falsehood, as Ramsdell well knew at the time. He devised it, as he himself admitted afterward, solely for the purpose of "getting even" with Senator Carpenter. After this had gone through the press, there came a charge made by Brick Pomeroy, in his sheet in this city, that Mr. Carpenter was refused a room because he was in a state of beastly intoxication, and it was said that his appearance "was dirty and filthy in the extreme," and Brick moralized it as follows:

"It was a pitiful sight, this drunken personal tool of the President, himself a Senator, refused quarters at a Long Branch hotel because he was not in a fit condition to associate with the people who are guests there. John Morrissey could get the best accommodations there because he would go clean and sober."

A few days were allowed for this to be copied by the press, preparing the public mind to believe that Mr. Carpenter, in such condition, might be guilty of anything and then the moral editor of the Tribune came out with a column of his usual wild Western rowdyism, charging Mr. Carpenter with having outraged the decency of the land by flaunting a paramour in the face of mothers and wives.

The charge of "beastly intoxication" was a necessary basis upon which to rest the other charge; for no one would believe that Mr. Carpenter was such a natural-born idiot as to do what was charged, if he were sober and in his right mind.

We have before us a letter from President Grant, pronouncing the charge that Mr. Carpenter was intoxicated entirely false. The President thus writes to Judge T. O. Howe, (Oct. 20, 1873:)

EXECUTIVE MANSION, }
WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct 20, 1872. }

DEAR JUDGE: Much has been said in the public prints relative to your colleague, Senator Carpenter, during his visit to Long Branch this last Summer. One charge made against him I know to be untrue. He spent an hour or more with me during the evening of his stay, and I can answer as to his being at the time strictly sober, giving no evidence of having been drinking to mark its effect at the time.—The other charges I know nothing about, and make no inquiry about, thinking them impossible.

Yours Truly. U. S. GRANT.
Judge T. O. Howe.

Here, then, is charge No. 1 disposed of. Mr. Farrar, the clerk of the West End Hotel, thus disposes of Ramsdell's lie:

WILLARD'S HOTEL, }
WASHINGTON, Oct. 20, 1873. }
Hon. T. O. Howe :

Dear Sir: In regard to the charges against Senator Carpenter at Long Branch, the facts are simply these: Mr. Carpenter came with several others, and there was not a vacant room in the house. I told him so, and gave him a note of introduction to the Ocean House. If the President had called at the same time for a room, I should have told him the same thing. Mr. Carpenter was neither intoxicated, nor guilty of any improprieties whatever.

GEO. H. FARRAR,
Room Clerk West End Hotel.

And Dr. Bliss, an intimate acquaintance of Ramsdell, thus disposes of him:

District of Columbia, Board of Health. }
WASHINGTON, Oct. 21, 1873. }
Hon. T. O. Howe :

Dear Sir: I saw Mr. Ramsdell, who telegraphed to the New York Tribune in regard to Senator Carpenter's being refused rooms at the West End Hotel, Long Branch, in June last, soon after Mr. Ramsdell's return to Washington I then informed Mr. Ramsdell that I was personally acquainted with the lady in question, having attended her professionally on several occasions during the last few years; that he made a mistake and done the lady a great wrong. He replied, "I don't care; I have got even with Carpenter." This he repeated, in substance, several times during the conversation, leading me to understand that he was only endeavoring to punish Senator Carpenter for his course as chairman of the Senate Committee in the matter of the stolen treaty. Mr. Ramsdell was formerly my chief clerk at Armory Square End Hospital during the late war, and our relations have been and now are intimate, and this conversation convinced me that his statement was more freely made than it would have been to others, and that he was only actuated by a design to retaliate upon Senator Carpenter, and seemed to rejoice that he had inflicted injury upon the character of Senator Carpenter without regard to what the facts might be.

I make this statement as a matter of justice, both to the lady injured and Senator Carpenter.

Very truly yours, D. W. BLISS.

These letters not only refute the charges made against Senator Carpenter, but show that they have been inspired by personal malice. We have before us a letter written by a United States Senator, in which he says that he was at Long Branch the day after Mr. Carpenter was there, and that he applied for and was unable to obtain a room at the West End Hotel for the reason that there was not a vacant room in the house, and he adds:

DECATUR, Ala., Sept. 11, 1873.

MY DEAR SENATOR: I was at Long Branch the day after you were there last Summer, or, at all events, the day the first telegram appeared in the New York Tribune concerning your visit there. I went to the "West End Hotel," and was told by the clerk that there was not a vacant room in the house and had not been for several days; that they had been compelled to refuse many persons.

I saw the Tribune correspondent (Mr. Ramsdell) a few moments afterward, and, referring to the telegram in the Tribune, I asked him what it meant, and whether there was any truth in it. He admitted to me that there was no truth whatever in what would be implied from the telegram. I afterward talked with the room clerk upon the same subject, and he told me you were refused a room only because every one in the house was occupied.

I am very sincerely yours,
GEO. E. SPENCER.
Hon. Matt. H. Carpenter, Milwaukee, Wis.

We think that there is quite proof enough here that the Tribune has once more been at its old games, and endeavored to destroy a political opponent by inventing a dastardly slander concerning him. What can people think, after reading the above letters, of Ramsdell and his precious "editor."—N. Y. Times.

Usury and the Banks.

Usury, in the legal sense of that term, means taking interest or compensation for the use of money beyond the rate fixed by law; but in its secondary and more liberal sense, a rate of interest whether allowed or forbidden by law, which involves, owing to its magnitude or the condition of the debtor, the ingredient of oppression. Power, however it may have been acquired, when unduly exercised, whether under color of law or not, is oppression; and oppression in all its forms is condemned by the moral law. The Jewish usurer was entitled by the bond of Antonio as well as the letter of the law, to the pound of flesh, but "the young doctor of Rome" decided against him. The boast of Samuel the last and best of Jewish Judges, was that he had oppressed no man. "Whom have I oppressed? Witness against me before the Lord." Amongst the Jews, as between themselves, the taking of interest at all for the use of money was held not only to be usury but odious, and, doubtless, upon the principle that money, owing to the very nature of the thing, affords untold facilities of tyranny and oppression. The same principle has induced most Christian nations to limit the rate of interest by positive law.

"Love of money is the root of all evil," and when put out at excessive rates leads to covetousness; covetousness to idolatry of the meanest of false gods Usurers in every age and nation have been held in detestation, and amongst the meanest of human kind. St. Paul does not hesitate to put them in the same predicament as adulterers, fornicators, idolators and unclean persons generally. The Shylock of Shakespeare, and the Trapbois of Sir Walter Scott, are not purely ideal. They have only too painful their exemplifications in the living, moving world round about us. The practice not only corrupts the heart but mars the outward man; the wrinkled brow, the suspicious eye, sunken cheek, shuffling gait, and leprous colored face, point out unerringly the Shylock and Trapbois. The moral condition of the man whose habit it is to take excessive interest for the use of the money under color of law, is bad enough; but not by one-half so bad as the man that is in the habit of exacting it in spite of law.

Whatever doubts there may be as to taking excessive and oppressive interest where the law is silent on this subject there ought to be none where the law forbids it. No man can be a faithful citizen and a good Christian. Obedience to the civil magistrate is a Christian duty. The best man, for he was God and man blended, that ever trod the earth commanded and practiced obedience to the civil authorities—"render unto Cæsar the things which are Cæsar's." The moral obligation to submit ourselves to the law is all the same whether it be politic or impolitic, wise or foolish. If it were not so, the ligament which ties mankind together in the social relations of citizens would be as a rope of sand. All consciences are not the same any more than all flesh is the same; and if the submission of every citizen were to be measured and regulated by his own conscience, there would be an instant end of all human government. But our main object is to deal with the subject of usury in the legal acceptation of that term. In Pennsylvania the rate of interest for the use of money is limited to six per cent. per annum, and all in excess of that rate is usury. This limitation has prevailed uniformly for over a century, notwithstanding frequent efforts to abolish or vary it. Down until 1858 the corrupt taking of interest on a loan of money beyond the rate limited by the statute was forfeiture of the contract; but by a statute passed in that year the penalty was reduced to forfeiture of the excess of interest only.

But the mitigation of the penalty does not, either in law or conscience, impair the obligation of the law. The sanction of the law, that is, the penalty incurred by violating it, is not in a moral aspect of the essence of it, but the means which it provides of coercing bad people who neither fear God nor regard man; it is the "hangman's whip to hand the wretch in order." Good people obey the law for conscience sake, and bad for wrath's sake, or not at all.

There is a large and influential class of men in every community, more especially the centres of commerce, who are under peculiar and most solemn obligations to abstain from usurious practices, but habitually and notoriously indulge in them—these are directors of banks, both National and State, and other monetary institutions. It is hoped that theirs is the sin of ignorance, which is punished by a few stripes.

By an act of Assembly, approved 16th April, 1850, Sec. 15, it is provided "that the President, Directors, Cashier, and other officers of a bank shall severally take an oath or affirmation to observe faithfully and honestly the provisions of this act; and that they and each of them, during their continuance in office, will not knowingly violate, or sanction, or willingly permit any of the provisions of this act to be violated."

Then follows the section, in close connection with the preceding one, declaring that "the rate at which loans may be made shall not exceed one-half of one per centum for thirty days." The Supreme Court has declared time and again that a bank cannot, by any management or contrivance, exceed the limited rate of discount without violating its fundamental law. Are directors of banks aware that by disregarding the legal limitations on the rate of interest, they are, just as often as they do it, putting in peril the characters of their institutions? Yea, more, their own souls. How is it with the directors of the national banks, when their doings are judged by their official and personal obligations? They, too, are required to take an oath "that they will not violate or permit to be violated any of the provisions" of their charters. Then follows the provision that "every association (bank) may take, receive, reserve and charge any loan or discount made, or upon any bill of exchange, note or other evidences of debt, interest at the rate allowed by the laws of the State where the bank is located and no more." Who that possesses a conscience not already galvanized with gold and silver can read these all-searching oaths, and think of the notorious and habitual disregard of them without a thrill of horror?

The practices which they forbid and are interested to prevent, are destructive not only or public and private morality, but of the material interests of the community where they prevail. Gradually but inevitably they are bound to bring the treasures of the land into a few hands; and what is harder to bear, to build up an aristocracy of wealth, the most galling and intolerable of all dominant classes.—Cannonsburg (Pa) Herald.

☞ Appleton's Weekly Journal is one of the most readable periodicals which we receive at this office. It is full of the best of literature, while it contains condensations of news, &c., &c., which make it interesting to the general reader as well. The subscription price is $4.50 per year. Address, Appleton's Journal, New York.

☞ The New York Times is one of the best and most reliable newspapers published in the country. It is gotten up with especial reference to the wants of all classes of the community. Any of our readers wanting a general newspaper—one that of course can give them very little, if any, local matter—will find it to their advantage to patronize it.

☞ In amending the National Banking System, a provision will quite likely be adopted, prohibiting any National Bank from being interested in a private bank or banks, or loaning its capital, for discounting purposes, to any other party or parties, with the understanding that the profits are to be divided. Many National Banks are accused of refusing to discount, but of finding funds for curb-stone brokers and private banking establishments, where a much higher percentage can be realized.

☞ Rowell's Newspaper Reporter announces, in two weeks, the suspension of 120 journals of different kinds. Is this not a frightful mortality? And yet the country is full of fools, who scarcely ever saw a type set or wrote three lines of good common sense in their lives, who are willing to step into the places of these burnt children. Practical printers, as a rule, are the only successful publishers of newspapers. Most any ass can scribble, but it takes experience to run the business successfully.

☞ The Republic for December, is full of interesting matter. It contains excellent articles, the National Banks and the New Loan, the Supreme Court of the U. S., and the N. Y. Central Railroad Co., The Trials of the Administration, A New Revelation, The Establishment of Republican Debating Clubs, The Administration and Protection to Immigrants, Work for Congress, The Cost of Life Insurance, Change of Ministry in Canada, The Abuse of Congressional Investigations, Fictitious Values, An Elastic Currency, Our Currency, etc., etc. It is published at $2 per annum by the Republic Publishing Company, Washington, D. C.

☞ The first number of the International Review has reached us. It is well printed and contains 144 pages and will be issued bi-monthly at $5 per year by A. S. Barnes & Co., New York. The current number contains six articles as follows: Our Late Panic; Fires in American Cities; Deep Sea Explorations; Universal Education; The Prussian Church Law and International Arbitration, and an extended review of Books. We read the first article, which is really a very able one, full of sound common sense and wholesome advice, with great interest. The remaining articles we have not had time to examine, but the writers are a sufficient guarantee that they are able productions. We hope that many of our readers will subscribe for this excellent work and thus secure the thoughts of a large number of the best men of both continents.

BRAZEN EFFRONTERY.

> "Whom the gods would destroy
> They first make mad."

This trite proverb must have suggested itself to every well-informed reader of last week's Globe. Ten or twelve mortal columns of that debased sheet, the property of a baser proprietor, was taken up with fulsome and nauseating flattery of A. L. Guss, a name that is a hissing and a byeword in the mouth of every virtuous man and woman in the community; and yet, who has the audacity, in the face of this glaring fact, to wheedle the innocent boys and girls—that under the dire necessity of penniless mothers—have becomethe wards of the State—to come upon the stage and defend him from the most debasing criminal charges, under the guise of establishing an honorable society. It it were possible to write a history of all that is immoral and debasing in civilization, we doubt exceedingly, whether it would be possible to find a parallel to this criminal's effrontery.

In the school, in the college, in the ministry, and lastly, in charge of a Soldiers' Orphan School, the crowning ambition of his life has been to dethrone virtue and make it subservient to his beastly purpose. He is a human monstrosity, who revels in all that is vile and degrading. No child ever relished sugar plum and rolled it beneath its tongue with half the zest that this beast seizes upon the least particle of slander and drinks it to the dregs, which, to him, are the choicest morsels, and loudly calls for more. No swine ever laved its sides in mire, grunting its warm appreciation to its fellows, with half the relish that this creature laves in this sort of debasement. He frequents the lewd and vicious and uses their vile slanders to intimidate his enemies. He retails, with great gusto, to his boon companions, his many intrigues; boasts of the number of marriage beds he has violated and the many helpless innocents he has robbed. And, yet it is claimed that he has been a father (?) and protector (!) of the orphans! Ye gods!

> "Such protection as vultures give to lambs,
> Covering and devouring them."

In the garb of a minister and a father,

> "With smooth dissimulation skilled to grace
> A devil's purpose with an angel's face,"

he has wormed himself, satan-like, into the confidence of almost every young woman that has been placed beneath his charge, until the penniless mothers, the victims of fratricidal war, cry from half the Commonwealth; but they are poor, in destitute circumstances and without influence, and the villain goes unwhipped of justice; and when he sees that an effort is about to be made to bring his infamy to the official knowledge of those who have closed their eyes and refused to see or hear, he inveigles many of his unsuspecting and helpless victims into his meshes, and endeavors to hedge up all the avenues leading to his conviction, by placing those whom he has outraged in a position from which there is no retreat without committing moral perjury.

We have in our possession the names of a number of females, who participated in the "re-union," so-called, whose mothers have, without stint, charged this beast with criminal assaults upon their offspring, and yet, these girls are bribed, coaxed, bullied, flattered and driven to Cassville to cover the shame of him who would be to-day the author of their ruin. Cassville is his Mecca! Here every tree, and stump, and stone, on every avenue leading to the place, is a silent witness of his infamy, while almost every hotel, within a radius of two hundred miles, contains a record of his assignations with some of these orphans, and every railroad car, could it speak, could tell of his pollutions. Hourly he plots to inveigle his victims from their homes, and seldom, if ever, a week passes but he meets some one or more of them. This is what the Cassville Soldiers' Orphan School, with A. L. Guss as its Principal, has been doing for the orphan girls! To cover up such hellish conduct the orphans are bribed, coaxed and driven to Cassville to make speeches, written by A. L. Guss or one of his tools—because there is a remarkable sameness pervades all of them—and to pass resolutions, written in the language and style of him whose beastliness they are to cover up, denouncing a poor orphan girl whom many of them did not know, while others knew what she asserted was only too, true from their own sad experience, but, if they halted, they knew the consequence. They had known their companions to complain, when at school, of the vile assaults made upon them by their beastly Principal, and when the complaint reached his ears the complainants—little girls—were driven before the assembled school and made to recant.—They were in for it, and Miss Pope, who had the courage to expose the lecherous villain, must be denounced and her veracity impeached, to save him at Harrisburg and to make the "peaching" of that worthy a thing to tremble at.

Such is a true picture of the Cassville School under A. L. Guss! Such the result of his infamy! We forgive the boys—they know not what they do. And we raise our voice and the voice of the public in favor of the girls. Parties stand ready to prove what is here asserted, and it MUST be done. This scoundrel has gone far enough. His last paper furnishes names that otherwise could not be had, and the way is open! We have long had facts enough in our possession to sink a ship, but the Republican party was in some measure responsible for the Soldiers' Orphan Schools, and we did not feel like placing weapons in the hands of the Democrats with which to break our own heads, but the School Department has apparently taken this creature in tow, and we shall see whether it can float the weight through without sinking.

☞ The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, going over the list of Senators whose terms expire in 1875, says: "Honest John Scott goes out. I sincerely hope he will be elected. John Scott is an honest man. His record is as clear as the noon-day sun. John Scott is poor, having barely anything but his salary to live upon; but his record on the back-pay iniquity, and every other, is clear and enviable. He did not finger any of the steal. He left it in the Treasury, where it belonged. He is a conscientious man, and the Pennsylvania Legislature should send him back."

☞ Financial and business affairs are looking up bravely in Philadelphia. The bank statement of averages for the last week, as reported in the papers of that city, is in every respect a highly favorable one, and shows that these institutions have gained strength in all important items. For instance, there is an augmentation of deposits to the amount of $575,063. In the line of reserves there is an aggregate gain of $486,381, of which sum $347,036 is in legal tenders and $139,455 in national notes. Liabilities to banks have been cut down $561,534, while the dues from banks show a decrease of $320,204. A much heaver business was also transacted at bank, the clearings being $9,282,851 in excess of the preceding week, and the balances heavier by $1,148,748. The proportion of gold and legal tenders to deposits and circulation in the aggregate is nearly thirty-five per cent. "a better showing," says the Ledger, "than we ever remember to have seen before from the Philadelphia banks."

☞ Hon. John Scott delivered a speech, in Philadelphia, on Saturday evening last a week ago, in opposition to the New Constitution. He objected seriously to the Judiciary article and, no doubt, thought, with many others, that it had better be rejected and sent back to the Convention for improvement, but the masses were only too glad to get it in the shape in which it is, and adopted it by an overwhelming vote.

☞ The official vote of Huntingdon county will be found in another column. The majority is 1,974 for the New Constitution. No one anticipated such an overwhelming majority, but the people are alive to their best interests.

News and Notes from Washington.

Congress—Close Application to Business—The The Financial Questions—Expansion and Contraction—The Salary Question—Judge Kelly's Currency Loan—The Charges Against Gen. Howard—Death in the President's Family.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 22, 1873.

PROCEEDINGS IN CONGRESS.

A large amount of business has been done, during the week, in both branches of Congress. The House, however, spent over two days in a very uninteresting debate on the salary question, and finally passed a bill fixing their pay and that of Senators at $6,000 per annum. During the debate Mr. Hale, of New York, took occasion to denounce the bill of last session, when Mr. Wilson, of Ind., charged Hale with receiving ten thousand dollars for his services as agent of the United States before the American-British Mixed Claims Commission after he was elected to the 43d Congress, which, with his Congressional salary, would give him about seventeen thousand dollars for his year's services! Hale did not attempt to deny the charge, but claimed that he had a legal right to pay from two official positions at the same time, for the reason that he had succeeded in getting a bill passed last session to enable him to do so!—Knowing, as he did, that the receipt of two salaries at the same time was contrary to the spirit and practice of the Government, his act was contemptible enough; but his remarks in reply to Mr. Wilson are simply disgraceful. Allow me to quote a sentence or two as a specimen of Mr. Hale in Congress. He said:

> There were men and beasts who were so filthy themselves that they were never content unless they were defiling others with their filth. All have known dirty curs who had been wallowing in the mud of the gutter to come out and defile decent people by rubbing their mud against them. The character of the decent man was not hurt by the contact with this mud and filth, but the cur was not benefited, but still always remained the dirty dog. [Sensation.]

Mr. Wilson, of Ind., (looking direct at Mr. Hale,) said the House had just had a very fair exhibition of the dirty dog.

Seventeen thousand dollars a year as the government compensation of a third-rate lawyer, whose manners, judging from the above quotation, are no better than his morals.

EXPANSION AND CONTRACTION.

The Senate has had the financial question under consideration, but postponed its final consideration until after the holidays. There are almost as many theories presented in reference to our finances and how to improve them, as there are men in the Senate; and after all the more reliable statesmen think that the less that is done in the way of changes the better. Mr. Boutwell remarked that he did not propose to go into any extended remarks at this time. He would state, however, that he favored neither contraction nor expansion. The former would bring the business interests of the country to a stand, would diminish the revenues and render taxation inevitable; the latter would postpone the day of specie payment, and he did not think it wise to add to the return of a currency of the character we now possessed. He viewed with apprehension any attempt to secure immediate specie payments.

THE HOUSE SALARY BILL IN THE SENATE.

On Thursday the Senate Committee on Civil Service Retrenchment reported a bill to the Senate with amendments to the House salary bill, in the nature of a substitute, as follows:

Be it enacted, &c., That so much of the act of March 3, 1873, as provides for the increase of the compensation of Members of Congress and the several officers and employes of either house of Congress, or both, be, and the same is hereby, repealed; and the salaries and compensation of all said persons shall be as fixed by the laws in force at the time of the passage of said act.

SEC. 2. That the compensation of the several heads of departments shall be each $8,000 per annum.

SEC. 3. That the Secretary of the Treasury is required to cover into the Treasury all sums that may remain undrawn or which have been received as increased compensation, under the provisions of said act, approved March 3, 1873 and which shall have or may come into his possession by the return thereof.

JUDGE KELLY'S PROPOSED CURRENCY LOAN.

On Thursday the Committee of Ways and Means had a protracted discussion upon Judge Kelly's resolution looking to the replenishing of the national treasury by means of a currency loan, rather than to impose the taxes on certain articles recommended in the letter of the Secretary of the Treasury. The discusion elicited the fact that Mr. Kelley's proposition has no element of strength with the committee, and further consideration postponed until after the Christmas holidays.

HOLIDAY RECESS.

During the short recess of Congress for the holidays very few of the members will leave the city. It is proposed to go on with the work by the committees and have it so advanced as to afford the greatest dispatch, consistent with the importance of the respective questions, immediately after Congress re-assembles.

THE CHARGES AGAINST GEN. HOWARD.

Gen. Howard has been several times, during the week, before the House Committee on Military Affairs, in reference to the charges preferred by the Secretary of War, of irregular proceedings in the management of the Freedmen's Bureau. The General takes the position that he is individually innocent, and demands the fullest investigation. For the acts of his subordinates he says he is neither morally nor legally responsible.

On Thursday the Committee resumed the subject. Secretary Belknap was with the committee upwards of an hour and explained the details of the exhibits accompanying his letter. The committee has not yet determined whether the case will be remanded to the War Department with authority to prosecute by court martial or whether it will be most expedient to proceed to recovery by civil process, but the majority of the committee are in favor of reporting a resolution for the action of the House directing the General of the army to convene a court martial to examine into, and dispose of the alleged charges of defalcation.

THE EXECUTIVE MANSION IN MOURNING.

The sudden death of Mr. Frederick Dent, father of Mrs. Grant, on Monday evening, at the White House, has thrown the President's family into deep grief. Mr. Dent was 88 years of age. The greater portion of his life was spent in active business near St. Louis. He was successful and retired some years ago. For some time past he has been living with his daughter, Mrs. Grant, in Washington. He rose in his usual health Monday, felt unwell in the afternoon and died calmly in the evening. The White House has been closed during the week. Funeral exercises were held on Thursday morning, at 9.30, Dr. Tiffany of the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal Church, where the family worshipped, officiating. The relatives, members of the Cabinet and other officials, with their families, were present. Only those invited were admitted. After the services, the body was conveyed to the depot, and the President and other male relatives accompanied the remains to St. Louis, Mo., for interment.

It is but a few weeks since the President buried his own father, at a very venerable age.

It is expected the President will return to-morrow or Wednesday. The Executive Mansion wears a deserted appearance.

From Fulton County.

MR. JOURNAL MAN:—In our rambling we have found our way into this county. On our way here we passed Maddensville, Huntingdon county, where we had the pleasure of dining with H. C. Madden, esq. We found him dressed in old Farmer's style, turning a corn sheller—his health is improved considerably. But we are writing from Fulton county and we must stick to the text. Things look a little blue here. Every person is crying hard times. All appear to have plenty to live upon, however. At Fort Littleton we stopped with Micheal Wilt who keeps the only hotel in the place which ranks among the best in the county. The only reason we can give for finding a first-class hotel in this county is that Micheal has got a Huntingdon county woman for a wife. Here we meet J. J. Cromer, door keeper to the last State senate. He is a sound republican and by the way a jolly chap. The old Fort is just about what it has been for several years back. The citizens are looking for a rail road which would be the making of the place. There are large veins of iron oar and beds of limestone waiting transportation. We have been talking some about the New Constitution but find very few that have read it. One man did not know that there had been a Convention to frame a New Constitution. He did not think there would be any election in his township. Another said he did not take any paper but the Christian Advocate and it did not publish the Constitution. We told him it was only published in this State. He inquired whether it was not for the whole United States. We said it was only for this State; he replied that he did not know they had Constitutions for States. We think some of our newspaper men should send these men a paper free for a year.

In Wells township we met Hon. Wm. Horton late member of the House of Representatives. We stopped over night with Mr. H. shared the good things of his table with him and had quite a pleasant chat, and those Northern Spy apples were grand. We will call again, William.

Liver and Blood Diseases.

BY R. V. PIERCE, M. D.

A hearty liver secretes each day about two and a half pounds of bile, which contains a great amount of waste material taken from the blood. When the liver becomes torpid or congested, it fails to eliminate this vast amount of noxious substance, which therefore, remains to poison the blood, and is conveyed to every part of the system. What must be the condition of the blood when it is receiving and retaining each day two and a half pounds of poison? Nature tries to work off this poison through other channels and organs—the kidney, lungs, skin, etc., but these organs become over-taxed in performing this labor in addition to their natural functions, and cannot long withstand the pressure, but become variously diseased.

The brain, which is the great electrocal centre of all vitality, is unduly stimulated by the unhealthy blood, which passes to it from the heart and it fails to perform its office healthfully. Hence the symptoms of bile poisoning, which are dullness, headache, incapacity to keep the mind on any subject, impairment of memory, dizzy, sleepy, or nervous feelings, gloomy forebodings, and irritability of temper. The blood itself being diseased, as it forms the sweat upon the serface of the skin, it is so irritating and poisonous that it produces discolored brown spots, pimples, blotches, and other eruptions, sores, boils, carbuncles and scrofulous tumors. The stomach, bowels and other organs cannot escape becoming affected, sooner or later, and we have as the result, costiveness, piles, dropsy, dyspepsia, diarrhœa. Other symptoms are common, as bitter or bad taste in the mouth, internal heat, palpitation, teasing cough, unsteady appetite, chocking sensation in throat, bloating of stomach, pain in sides or about shoulders or back, coldness of extremities, etc., etc. Only a few of the above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time. The liver being the great depurating or blood cleansing organ of the system—set this grant "housekeeper of our health" at work, and the foul corruptions, which gender in the blood, and rot out as it were, the machinery of life, are gradually expelled from the system. For this purpose Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with very small doses daily of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets are pre-eminently the articles needed. They cure every kind of humor from the worst scrofula to the common pimple, blotch or eruption. Great eating ulcers kindly heal under their mighty curative influence. Virulent blood poisons that lurk in the system are by them robbed of their terrors, and by their preserving and somewhat protracted use the most tainted systems may be completely renovated and built up anew. Enlarged glands, tumors and swellings dwindle away and disappear under the influence of these great resolvents.

The town of Westville, Nova Scotia, experienced the benefits, a few days since, of being built over a coal mine, the principal street suddenly dropping several feet. A number of buildings assumed a tipsy position, but fortunately no one was hurt.

ANOTHER PRIZE! Forney's Anecdotes of Public Men, also offered as a premium. Retail price, $2 per copy. In anticipation of the Third Edition, we offer (post-paid) a copy of the "Anecdotes of Public Men" to any person who will send us ten subscribers for the WEEKLY PRESS, one of the most varied publications in the country, abounding in literary, agricultural, political, and business matter, printed in quarto form, on strong white paper, and with clear, beautiful type. Forney's Weekly Press claims to be The Best Family Paper, The Best Republican Weekly, The Best Weekly Newspaper, The Best Literary Journal, The Best Agricultural Organ, The Best Advertising Medium in the Keystone State. It is, in all respects, the exponential journal of Pennsylvania, going everywhere, and always striking the leading and representative men in each township. The Agricultural page of this paper is a marked speciality. Its management is in the exclusive control of Mr. THOMAS MEEHAN, whose reputation throughout the whole country as a practical and successful agriculturist is well known. His flourishing farm and nursery near this city are the best evidences of his fitness for this important position. The articles from this department are widely copied and sought after by the leading country weeklies—the surest testimony possible of their intrinsic value and worth. The Editorial Correspondence this year alone presents a bird's-eye view of the farms and farming of all the principal Western States. No intelligent farmer can well afford do without this page.

There is, perhaps, no weekly journal which gives so much interesting and instructive reading matter in a single number as Forney's Weekly Press. A very casual inspection will justify this assertion. Excepting the editorial pages, all of this paper is set up in minion or nonpareil, while most of weeklies indulge in brevier, or even larger type, and leaded at that. Its connection with the Associated Press enables the proprietor to furnish the readers with the very latest Foreign and Domestic News by Telegraph, Steamships, and the Atlantic Cable. Full Market Reports—money, grain, cattle, and general—of Philadelphia and all the leading cities of the Union, constitute a prominent and invaluable feature of the Weekly Press. The greatest care is exercised in the selection of the varied table of contents, and in the making up of the paper. Urged on by the law of growth, stimulated by a high journalistic pride, and encouraged by the recognition and appreciation of the public, its proprietor seeks still longer to hold for it the place of the Representative Newspaper of Pennsylvania.

TERMS OF THE WEEKLY PRESS:

APPLETONS' AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA.

NEW REVISED EDITION.

Entirely rewritten by the ablest writers on every subject. Printed from new type, and illustrated with Several Thousand Engravings and Maps.

The work originally published under the title of THE NEW AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA was completed in 1863, since which time the wide circulation which it has attained in all parts of the United States, and the signal developments which have taken place in every branch of science, literature and art, have induced the editors and publishers to submit it to an exact and thorough revision, and to issue a new edition entitled THE AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA.

Within the last ten years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge has made a new work of reference an imperative want.

The movement of political affairs has kept pace with the discoveries of science, and their fruitful application to the industrial and useful arts and the convenience and refinement of social life. Great wars and consequent revolutions have occurred, involving national changes of peculiar moment. The civil war of our own country, which was at its height when the last volume of the old work appeared, has happily been ended, and a new course of commercial and industrial activity has been commenced.

Large accessions to our geographical knowledge have been made by the indefatigable explorers of Africa.

The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the natural result of the lapse of time, have brought into public view a multitude of new men, whose names are in every one's mouth, and of whose lives every one is curious to know the particulars. Great battles have been fought and important sieges maintained, of which the details are as yet preserved only in the newspapers or in the transient publications of the day, but which ought now to take their place in permanent and authentic history.

In preparing the present edition for the press, it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the latest possible dates, and to furnish an accurate account of the most recent discoveries in science, of every fresh production in literature, and of the newest inventions in the practical arts, as well as to give a succinct and original record of the progress of political and historical events.

The work has been begun after long and careful preliminary labor, and with the most ample resources for carrying it on to a successful termination.

None of the original stereotype plates have been used, but every page has been printed on new type, forming in fact a new Cyclopædia, with the same plan and compass as its predecessor, but with a far greater pecuniary expenditure, and with such improvements in its composition as have been suggested by longer experience and enlarged knowledge.

The illustrations which are introduced for the first time in the present edition have been added not for the sake of pictorial effect, but to give lucidity and force to the explanations in the text. They embrace all branches of science and of natural history, and depict the most famous and remarkable features of scenery, architecture and art, as well as the various processes of mechanics and manufactures. Although intended for instruction rather than embellishment, no pains have been spared to insure their artistic excellence; the cost of their execution is enormous, and it is believed they will find a welcome reception as an admirable feature of the Cyclopædia, and worthy of its high character.

This work is sold to Subscribers only, payable on delivery of each volume. It will be completed in sixteen large octavo volumes, each containing about 800 pages, fully illustrated with several thousand Wood Engravings, and with numerous colored Lithographic Maps.

James Kyler, of Oneida township, killed a large buck, on Thursday last.

Rents should be brought down to correspond with the decrease in wages.

Rev. McMurray gave the whiskey-suckers a complete overhauling, on Sunday evening.

The colored band intends purchasing more new instruments. We wish them success.

The members of the Church of God are holding a protracted meeting at Beavertown.

A small child of Hugh Johnston, of Petersburg, was severely afflicted with quinsy, last week.

New-fashioned ear-rings are in the shape of a bucket with small wheel and cable, all in gold.

A correspondent from Beavertown wants to hear from "Nicodemus Wocker." Give 'em a few, Nic.

Dr. George W. Orlady had a horse severely injured, on last Wednesday, by blundering upon a snag.

Dan Rice's trick horse, "Excelsior," was sold, under the sheriff's hammer, in Lousville, the other day, for $126.

Esquire Womelsdorf, of Juniata township, killed a Chester white hog, one day last week, that weighed 550 pounds.

Dr. McCullough and Esq. Baily's Constitution went through hopping. The Doctor walks briskly since the election.

The conversation indulged in by two gentlemen the other evening, at the Union Depot, was more forcible than elegant.

A successful revival of religion is in progress in the M. E. Church, at McConnellsburg, under the supervision of Rev. R. H. Wharton.

They have more churches and school houses, in Porter, than in any other township in the county, and voted against the New Constitution.

They have a man, in the neighborhood of Beavertown, who insists that he can hit a deer with a stone a distance of sixty yards. How is this for high?

On Thursday night of last week, an Exhibition, for the benefit of the Baptist Church, was given at Shirley. It is said to have been a complete success.

A laughable picture of distress was seen at the corner of Ninth and Mifflin streets, one night last week, in the shape of a young gentleman trying to light his pipe at a street lamp! Somebody should give Eph. a box of matches.

Mr. David Ross, of Penn township, while cutting wood, on Friday a week ago, struck a limb in raising his axe, which caused it to diverge from the point aimed at and to strike his left foot, severely cutting it and completely disabling him.

Rev. Wm. McKee has removed from Shirleysburg to Orbisonia, into his own new house, and he is the most elated man in the Lower End. The admiring members of his church, at Shirleysburg, made him a handsome donation before he removed.

Our friend H. E. Crum performed two nobie acts, on last Tuesday, by voting for the New Constitution in the forenoon, and by taking unto himself a wife in the afternoon. May he be the happy recipient of a long life of untainted happiness.

President Grant and family passed through this place, on the Fast Line, westward bound, on Thursday night. They were accompanying the remains of the President's father-in-law, Hon. Frederick Dent, to St. Louis, where the same will be interred with suitable ceremonies.

A shooting match, for $100 a side, came off at Cresson, on Thursday last, between McKnight, of Hollidaysburg, and Behea, of Cambria county. Behea made a string of 60 inches, in fifteen shots, at a distance of one hundred yards against 62½ inches for his competitor. We have dozens of marksmen in this community who can beat all such shooting as that.

The Carrier of the JOURNAL will make his bow and deliver his usual Annual Address, on New Year's morning, when, we hope, each of our town patrons will be prepared to favor him with a quarter. It is worth five cents more per year, at least, to have your paper delivered at your door than at the Post Office, and we trust no one will ask him to do it for less.

Rev. G. W. Zahniser, of the Presbyterian Church, of Huntingdon, delivered two very interesting sermons to a well filled house, in the Presbyterian church, of this place, on Sabbath morning and evening last. Rev. S. M. Moore, of the church at this place, did likewise at Huntingdon, the Reverend gentlemen having exchanged pulpits for the day.—Tyrone Herald.

J. W. Welch, esq., has just issued a pamphlet of Christmas poems. They are splendid. Anybody forwarding us 25 cents will receive a copy by return of mail. For 60 cents we will forward a copy of the Crowning Gift of Heaven and Christmas poems. Everybody, in this locality, ought to buy a copy of Welch's Christmas poems. Talents, such as Mr. Welch's, should be appreciated.

On Wednesday morning Mr. Levi Berkstresser met with a very severe accident on the H. & B. T. R. R., at Everett station, while engaged in shifting cars. He was brakeman on a coal train of the Bedford Division, and by some means or other fell on the track and a car passed over him, crushing his thigh, left leg and arm. Drs. Watson and Danaker were summoned to his assistance—but, from present reports it is exceedingly doubtful if he will recover. He is a single man about thirty years of age.—Bedford Inquirer.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.—The first Sabbath School Convention of the Presbytery of Huntingdon met in the Presbyterian church, Hollidaysburg, on Wednesday evening, December 10th, 1873, at seven o'clock p. m., and was called to order by the Rev. W. T. Wylie, of Bellefonte, chairman of the committee of the Presbytery of Huntingdon on Sabbath School work. Devotional exercises of a half hour's duration were then held, during which many pleasant and interesting addresses were made by members of the convention present. After devotional exercises, Rev. H. S. Butler, of Clearfield, was elected Secretary of the Convention, and Hon. Sam'l McCamant, of Tyrone, was chosen Assistant Secretary. The first subject of discussion was then announced by the Chairman, viz: "Our Responsibility as Presbyterians in the Sabbath School Work." The discussion was opened by A. S. Landis, esq., of Hollidaysburg. Wm. P. Orbison, esq., of Huntingdon, Rev. J. C. Kelley, of Spruce Creek, Gen. James A. Beaver, of Bellefonte, and J. Bennett Tyler, of Philadelphia, Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Publication, followed in able and appropriate addresses. The Convention sang several beautiful hymns during the exercises, including "Blest be the tie that binds," and "Guide me, O thou great Jehovah," and finally adjourned to meet at nine o'clock on Thursday morning.

THURSDAY'S SESSIONS.

MORNING.—The first half hour was spent in devotional exercises, after which the question, "What Constitutes Success in Sabbath School Work?" was taken up and ably discussed by Gen. James A. Beaver, of Bellefonte, Mr. John Fulton, of Saxton, Rev. Wm. Prideaux, of Shirleysburg, Rev. R. Crittenden, of Bellefonte, and J. Bennett Tyler, of Philadelphia. A recess of five minutes was then taken, after which the question, "The Church Responsible for the Sabbath School," was taken up and discussed by Rev. R. M. Wallace, of Altoona, Rev. W. J. Chichester, of Altoona, Rev. H. S. Butler, of Altoona, Rev. S. T. Wilson, D. D., of Birmingham, Rev. Wm. Prideaux, of Shirleysburg, and J. Bennett Tyler, of Philadelphia. The proceedings were interspersed with the singing of many beautiful hymns. At noon the Convention took a recess until two and a half o'clock p. m.

AFTERNOON.—The afternoon sessions was opened by the discussion of the question, "Teachers' Preparation." Messrs. J. Bennett Tyler, of Philadelphia, and John Fulton, of Saxton, participated in this discussion. Devotional exercises were then held for the space of one hour, and many pleasent and interesting addresses were made. At the conclusion of these profitable exercises the Convention adjourned until seven o'clock p. m.

EVENING.—At the specified hour the Convention was called to order by the Chairman. Devotional exercises were continued for one half hour. The subject for discussion was then announced, viz: "The Relation of the Spiritual to the Intellectual in Teachers."—J. Bennett Tyler conducted this discussion in an able and eloquent address. The choir then sang, "Work for the Night is Coming," after which the Chairman announced, "The Duty of Parents to the Sabbath School," as the next subject for discussion. Rev. U. W. Condit opened the discussion and was followed by Rev's. J. W. White, R. Crittenden, S. T. Wilson, D. D., and Mr. James A. Brown. The question box was then opened, and the questions placed therein were taken up and answered by various members of the Convention to whom they were given. After a very interesting and profitable session, the Convention adjourned to meet on Friday morning.

CONCLUDING SESSION.—The Convention met on Friday morning at the appointed time.—Devotional exercises were continued for one half hour, after which the superintendents present gave verbal reports of the present condition of the schools under their charge.—Several questions in relation to Sabbath School work were propounded and satisfactorily answered. The hour for adjourning being near at hand, the Convention sang, "Work, for the Night is Coming," at the conclusion of which Rev. Dr. S. T. Wilson led in prayer, closing with the Lord's prayer, in which he was joined by the members of the Convention. The programme work having been satisfactorily completed, on motion, the Convention adjourned sine die.

This first Sabbath School Convention of our Presbyterian friends in the bounds of the Presbytery of Huntingdon was a grand success in every respect, and will doubtless be followed by similar meetings. Much interest was manifested by the delegates of whom, one hundred and ten, representing twenty-seven schools, were enrolled, while our citizens participated in the interesting exercises.—Hollidaysburg Standard.

A Battle.

BY DENNIS O'RAFFERTY.

A lop-eared, grasy dutchman,
Forninst meself did live;
He looked like mouldy sour-kraut,
Strained through a corn-male sieve.

He shmelt of sour lager,
And he shmoked a crooked pipe;
Me fist did ache, begorra,
Jist to give his shnout a wipe.

So I shtood before me shanty,
Jist to give him sich a look,
That would make the dutchman trimble,
Like a salmon on a hook.

And if he didn't trimble,
Thin meself was jist the boy,
That would belt him on the noggin,
Till his beauty I'd destroy.

Thin soon his little cabin
Opened wide its dirty dure;
And the dutchman shtood before me
Like a bitther aguy cure.

But whin I looked sharp daggers
Shure he quite forgot to sheare;
But on me lovely fatures
Like a scrachin owl did shtare.

Thin I placed me velvet mawley
Jist above his gimlet eye;
And he tuck a sate, quite gintly,
In a puddle that was nigh.

So I thought the fun was over,
And me arms had gained the day;
And I turned to walk, so bowldly,
From the battle-ground away.

Whin across me auburn tresses
That same dutchman laid a shtick,
And me ruby lips, quite rudely,
Kissed the outside row of brick.

Thin I shouted bloody murther!
And they tuck the baste away;
But I've niver fought a dutchman
Since that damp, unhealthy day.

FURS, Furs, Furs.—Our first, second and third purchase of Furs have come and gone, and now our fourth and last heavy purchase for the season has just arrived and is on exhibition at our store. We have Furs of every description and quality, at prices lower than ever dreamed of by the most penurious. Now is your best and last chance to secure a desirable Christmas gift. HENRY & Co.

A HUNTINGDON AFFAIR.—The Standard contains a Martinsburg, Blair county, correspondence, which relates the following huge story at the expense of a Huntingdon "dad."

"There is a dashing and fashionable young man in this place, who is rather prepossessing in his appearance, of gentlemanly bearing, polite, and devoted to the fair sex. About a year ago it was his good fortune, or perhaps misfortune, to make the acquaintance of a "plump and bouncing belle" of Huntingdon county. He described her to a friend as being beautiful as the Houries, symmetrical in form, fascinating in her manners, graceful and charming in every respect. Before the lustre of her cheeks gold will pale in its richness, before her lips diamonds grow dim, and in the sparkle of her eye rubies lose their flashing fires. In a word, she is truly a queen. At this phase of the affair he found it utterly impossible to maintain love's equilibrium and keep it on terra firma, and most profusely did he lavish it upon this fair damsel. During the last stage the visits of this devoted Felix became quite frequent, but, for reasons not known to us, called forth a strong resistance from the ever-watchful father of this fair Helen. He remonstrated with his lovely daughter as only a father can, but evidently to no purpose, for she placed at defiance his threats, and yielded not to his entreaties, but persisted in receiving the attentions of Felix, her ideal man. The father, being of a resolute character and quick temperament, sought out and applied many inventions to destroy the relationship that existed between them; but his every effort proved abortive and unavailing, and the "daring young man" always came off the victor. About six weeks since, this incorrigible boy, as her papa called him, paid his accustomed visit to the "fairy queen," during which a little unpleasantness sprang up between them, which was instrumental in the exchange of sharp, sarcastic words. A storm of these and then all was quiet, each, no doubt, given to his and her own meditations. At this period the town clock announced the approach of the "wee sma' hours," and, neither desiring to part just then, both remained in their quiet and pensive mood. A few minutes later and they were in the sweet embrace of Morpheus, Felix being soon transported into the land of dreams. While there he imagined that he and his fair Helen were in a delightful paradise, in the midst of fairies, and enjoying a pleasant time in the evening of a mild summer's day. His noble animal, the horse which he imagined himself to be driving, being of a spirited disposition, suddenly became frightened at some object and dashed away at a fearful rate, and at the same time jerking the ribbons from the hand of Felix, who instantly made one grand leap, in a superhuman effort to regain the lines. But, oh horror! he succeeded in getting hold of—not the lines—but the flowing curls of his "sweet Fleurette," who screamed vociferously, while the hero of the drive pulled harder to check the affrighted horse. The unearthly and vociferous yells of the young lady soon brought the old man to the scene of action, and taking one comprehensive view of the situation, he "reached for" the sleeping Felix, and, with a well directed blow on the back of the head and an application of a boot to that place where it was wont to go on such occasions, Felix found himself hors de combat, struggling in the mud of ye ancient town of Huntingdon. At this juncture he only realized his true situation, and gathering himself up made a bee line for the hotel, there to ponder over that well-known and long-established adage: "The course of true love never did run smooth." He has fully recovered now, and says that life is composed of "ups and downs and kicks and frowns," and that hereafter when he visits Huntingdon in the role of a lover, he will carry with him a little 'Ed. Stokes.'"

Go to Henry & Co.'s. and ask one of their accommodating clerks to show you one of their last arrivals of "Grange" or "Tourists" hats (the latest novelty in hats) and you will then and there learn to an occular demonstration that no line of goods has been more affected by the financial troubles, than that of hats.

CLOTHING FOR THE MILLION.—Colonel Oliver Cunningham, of the Popular Clothing House, near the Union Depot, has just returned from the eastern cities with the largest and best assortment of Clothing ever offered to the citizens of Huntingdon county. In quality of fabric, substantial manufacture, and fashionable cut, they are equalled no place outside of Paris and New York, and are sold so reasonably low that the poorest man can afford to dress like a Prince. THE most attractive and the largest stock of Calicoes in town is going off as fast as four and five clerks can tie them up and receive the chink, at Henry & Co.'s.

THE RIGHT OF WAY.—Many citizens in town and country when driving through our streets seem to ignore the rights of pedestrians, and drive as though every one must give away to them and look out for themselves. Pedestrians, by law, possess the right of way in crossing a street, and no driver has a right shout "look out there," or give any such orders. It is the driver's duty to "look out," and to respect the right of foot passengers, and in neglecting this necessary precaution he renders himself amenable to the law and liable for damages.—Exchange.

LITERARY NOTICES.—St. Nicholas for January.—This is the holiday number of Scribner's new magazine for young people, and it comes loaded, not only with its own store of good things for the Christmas time, but with the best of what had been promised to the readers of Our Young Folks—for the last-named magazine has been bought by Scribner & Co., and is now merged in St. Nicholas. The magazine shows a great increase in size, while the quality of its contents is superior to that of the earlier numbers, and that is saying a great deal. It is unusually rich in stories. There is a New York Christmas story, which is most admirably told. Then there is a German Christmas story, by Mary Lockwood, and a fairy Christmas story. Besides these and numerous other stories, there are no less than three serials now running in St. Nicholas. Then there is the first installment of a serial for girls, "Nimpo's Troubles," by Olive Thorne, so well known as a writer for young folks. The opening chapters indicate that this will be one of her very best stories. There are also poems by William Cullen Bryant, Lucy Larcom and Mary Mapes Dodge. The engravings, of which there is a generous display—about forty in all—are of that high order which has already made St. Nicholas noted as a magazine of art.

Scribner's, for January.—The January number of Scribner's Monthly has among its contributors Bret Harte, Gail Hamilton, Charles Dudley Warner, John G. Saxe, Col. T. W. Higginson, George MacDonald, James Anthony Froude, John Hay, R. H. Stoddard, H. H., Frank R. Stockton, Adeline Trafton, Edward King and Albert Rhodes. Bret Harte and Gail Hamilton contribute stories; Harte's being entitled "A Monte Flat Pastoral; How Old Man Plunkett Went Home." George MacDonald contributes a remarkable poem suggested by a picture, by Thomas Moran, entitled "The Haunted House." There are poems, also, by Stoddard, Hay, Saxe, J. C. R. Dorr, H. H., and a nameless author who rhymes of "The Olden Time." Edward King, the writer, and Champney, the artist, give us (in the Great South series,) Glimpses of Texas, and especially of San Antonio. Froude's study of the "Annals of an English Abbey" is completed. Warner prints his "Thoughts Suggested by Mr. Froude's Progress." Higginson's sketch of Warner is illustrated by a portrait. In Topics of the Time Dr. Holland discusses Church Union, "The American Restaurant," and "Literature for Boys." In The Old Cabinet is something about New Years, Christmas, and The Black-Heart Cherry-Tree. In Home and Society may be found "A Word for the Poor." The scientific, critical and humorous departments are as full as usual.

Hearth and Home.—This popular weekly journal has just commenced the publication of a charming new story, entitled "John Andross," by Mrs. Rebecca Harding Davis. Without doubt, Mrs. Davis is one of the very best story writers in America, and, having given more than usual care and labor to the preparation of "John Andross," the reading public may expect it one of her best works.

We take pleasure in commending Hearth and Home as one of the ablest, purest, and most carefully edited of the literary home weeklies. Its stories are not of the trashy, sensational character, yet are of absorbing interest; and will be read with pleasure and profit by every member of the family. Its editorials are always timely, able, independent. The best American and foreign writers contribute to its columns; and, take it all in all, it is as near a perfect Home Paper as is published in this or any other country. ORANGE JUDD COMPANY, Publishers, 245 Broadway, N. Y.

WAR TO THE KNIFE AND THE KNIFE TO THE HILT.—The capture of the Virginius created no more commotion in town and country than did the last arrival of goods at the Mammoth Store. From the tremendous crowds that filled our rooms every day of last week, and from the heavy loads of goods carried and hauled away during the week some might suppose that our stock is well nigh exhausted. To such we would say that we are careful to fill the places of all goods that go out, by fresh and daily arrivals from the east. We will keep our stock complete and full just as long as the price of all kinds of goods remain as low as they now are. So that no one may want for any thing without having the opportunity of having their wants supplied. Come on, come on, and bring your friends along. HENRY & Co.

NEW CONSTITUTION.—Brackets, Wall Pockets, &c., for Christmas Presents, at Brown & Tyhurst's Furniture Store.

BUFFALO Robes at Glaziers.' dec17-4t.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION.—The First Mission Sabbath School (colored) of Huntingdon, will hold their Fifth Anniversary Celebration, in Wharton & Maguire's Hall, on Saturday evening, December 27th. All who love sweet singing should avail themselves of the opportunity now offered, as the large hall has been secured that the public might attend, and this school has high praise for its singing. Two or three places will be sung, imitating the singing of the Jubilee Singers, a peculier and impressive style of music. Other interesting exercises will be in the programme. An admission fee of ten cents will be asked to defray expenses.

OYSTERS! OYSTERS!! Oysters!!!—Will be on hand at the Castilian Oyster Bay fresh on Christmas morning, a large and well selected stock of Oysters expressly for Christmas. Also, Ice Cream on hand and made to order.

MISS AFRICA TAKES THE LEAD FOR THE HOLIDAYS!—We have just looked over Miss Africa's splendid stock of holiday gifts and goods of every description, and they are superb. FROM MAPLETON.

MR. EDITOR.—It occurs to me that our town, Mapleton, is receiving an unusual amount of public notice, and much censure through some of the public journals of the county, as well as other sources, and while we unwillingly feel that we must acknowledge that a few of our inhabitants, male and female, are persons of intemperate and immoral habits, we are not certain that the circulation of the same will have any tendency to improve them, but if that is one, and the only remedy, I would say to our contributors of the press, continue to spread the news far and wide.

But with reference to an article in the Globe of this week, purporting to be a copy of a letter, and published by request of some one in our town, I cannot come to any other conclusion than that it is entirely unjust and even foolish on the part of the person exposing such a document. It is wrong, because it contains nothing that would make it a matter of public interest. This letter is not, by any means, a simple one; it does not contain any nonsense, nor does it convey any idea but common friendship between the writer and the receiver, and I see nothing accomplished in publishing it except to expose bad spelling, and thereby wound the feelings of the writer who has been working, perhaps, for an honest living, and one who may have had to work all her life time, and thereby lost the opportunity of requiring a better education, viewing it in this light, our conclusion is that the person who forwarded the letter departed far from the golden rule, and we also have our opinion of an Editor who would receive and publish the same. FAIR PLAY.

REPEAL OF THE PATENT LAW.

MR. EDITOR.—As the Legislature will soon meet, I would ask you, and the press throughout the State, to urge upon that body the importance of the repeal of a law that is, these hard times, bearing very onerous on the poor class of farmers, to wit: The present Land Patent Law. There are judgments being entered all over the State against lands under the present law, that if the lands were forced to sale, would not pay the lien. Let us have the old law re-enacted and give the poor man a chance once more to close out and perfect his title. A POOR FARMER.

[We think it would be well for the Legislature to give this matter its attention. Thousands of liens have been entered and if the State insists upon prompt payment great distress must follow.—ED. JOURNAL.]

FROM THREE SPRINGS.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—Under the head of "Court Proceedings," in the Globe of the 25th, ult., a friend has called my attention to "Com. vs. Dr. J. F. Thompson, for selling liquor without license," in which the editor has drawn largely upon his imagination, when he undertakes to say that the whole thing was a vindictive political prosecution. Eidtors, when ministers of the Gospel, ought surely to be careful of falsifying, particularly against men who are doing what they can to vindicate the law, and to suppress the crying evil of intemperance in this community. The informers in the case of Dr. Thompson are men who, we believe, would not condescend to do him a wrong in this matter, but he, with others, were reported because it was too notorious that he was engaged in distributing this vile stuff, and could the case have been gotten before the Court, I believe that there would have been revelations there made that would have saved his editorial Reverence the trouble of drawing so largely on a tainted imagination. The meshes of the Grand Jury room are not always sufficiently small to catch the small fry that suck around the end of the worm or the curtained windows of the physician's shop.

LOCAL OPTION.

TYRONE SCHOOLS.

MR. EDITOR.—I had the pleasure of visiting the Public Schools of Tyrone; which are superintended by Prof. H. L. Atkinson, formerly principal of the Public Schools of Huntingdon. Too much cannot be said in the way of commendation of the schools of Tyrone. The rooms are neat and clean. The diciplino of the schools is good; and the thoroughness of the recitations proves that Prof. A. is doing a good work. He is aided by a corps of efficient teachers who seem to co-opperate with him for the advancement and good of the schools. We wish him much success in his new field of labor. S.

IS THERE A MAN SO DEAD

To all sense of justice to himself as to allow the virus of Scrofula or syphillis to remain in his system when he can be healed by that most potent of remedies; the Samaritan's Root and Herb Juices. To keep these diseases in the system is a wrong not only to the victim himself but also to society as the innocent may be contaminated. How many unhappy marriages are there caused from this hidden enemy. Rest assured that the trouble will not lay quiet but will break out when least wanted; then comes the tug of war, with bickerings on one side and remorse on the other; avoid the misery. Neglect of Animals in Autumn.

If animals were endowed with speech they would often remonstrate with their owners about the neglect and carelessness with which they are occasionally treated. And though they cannot speak, yet they have a certain mute eloquence in their looks, and tell their tale with a force and point that are often more effectual than words. Very often the rough, shaggy, staring coat, the prominent ribs, drooping head, woe-begone countenance, and appealing eye, tell a tale as plainly as if it were in print. It tells of hard work, poor feed, exposure to storms and tempest and keenly-biting winds. And yet there may be a tight, snug barn, and stacks of fodder still remaining in the field; while from very thoughtlessness the poor old faithful servant, who has ploughed his master's fields year by year, is permitted to remain in an airy yard or in a barren pasture with half-filled belly, and sniff with impatient appetite at the fodder just beyond his reach across the fence. Some farmers seem to think that the fresh air of our October nights, and an occasional wetting with the cold falls rains, are good for the health of their horses, colts, cows, or calves, and make them hardy and vigorous; but this is all wrong. It is unprofitable as well as cruel. Animals exposed to the cold until they are chilled are stunted in their growth, and gather the seeds of future disease.—Warmth saves feed; cold wastes feed.—Stock well housed keep in better condition on less food than those left out doors in rail pens, damp yards, or exposed pastures. At this season, no stock should be kept out at night nor on stormy days; for the abrupt change from warm sunny days to cold storms of rain and sleet is too great a shock. Pine boards are, in a sense, excellent fodder, and a dry bed of straw the best nutriment. Farmers who consult the comfort of their stock, and their own profit, will see to it that their stables and sheds, are put in good order, loose boards nailed on, doors and roofs made tight, good dry straw furnished for bedding, and that their cattle are comfortably sheltered, before the cold winds begin to blow and the first snow of the season flies.—American Agriculturist.

Every Farmer Should Keep Sheep.

While large flocks of sheep are seldom profitable upon high priced lands, a small number never fails to yield satisfactory and profitable results. Mutton is not only our best and most wholesome fresh meat, but is beyond all comparsion the cheapest when grown upon the farm.

If your farm is small, or land too dear for wool-growing, or from any other cause you are not prepared to establish a flock of our splended American bred Merinos, a small number of good breed cannot fail to be profitable and may be kept with less expense and trouble than any other stock. Where it is not practicable to procure well bred ewes, a beginning may be made by using a thoroughbred ram on ewes of the common or mixed blood of the neighborhood, so that they be strong and vigorous, and the male produce of these will make excellent wethers, while the best females may be reserved to be crossed with full-blooded rams, until you have grades that for mutton will nearly equal the thoroughbreds.

The experiment we are suggesting involves a very small outlay in money, as these mutton sheep can now be had at very low prices, so that there can be no farmer so poor that he cannot afford to make it.

Let it be remembered, that meat equally good and wholesome cannot be produced in any other way with so little expenditure of time and money, that we urge every farmer to adopt this suggestion. Some people say they do not like mutton; but we never knew a case of this sort that would not yield a piece of well cooked Southdown.—National Live Stock Journal.

Fresh Blown Flowers in Winter.

The following directions are endorsed by the Manufacturer and Builder: "Choose some of the most powerful buds of the flowers you would preserve—such as are latest in blowing and ready to open; cut them off with a pair of scissors, leaving to each, if possible, a piece of the stem three inches long. Cover the stem immediately with sealing wax; and, when the buds are a little shrunk and wrinkled, wrap each of them up separately in a piece of paper, perfectly clean and dry, and put them in a dry box or drawer, and they will keep without corrupting. In winter, or any other time, when you would have the flowers blow, take the buds at night and cut off the end of the stem sealed with wax, and put them into water in which a little nitre of salt has been diffused; and the next day you will have the pleasure of seeing the buds open and expand themselves, and the flowers display their most lovely colors, and breathe their agreeable odors."

Cattle in Winter.

Speaking of men's duty to make warm barns, your paper reminded me of my "travail of spirit," over the miserable shelters too commonly afforded, even in New England, where they pride themselves on housing their cattle. I have heard a farmer say, "My cattle are always kept warm. I couldn't sleep myself if I thought they were not comfortable," when I knew that his barn was full of cracks that let in all the winds, and when I had seen the poor things shaking from head to foot with the cold. Men, even good, and in the main, kind-hearted men, do not know what "comfortable" means, as applied to their horses and cattle. If they were shut in stalls in a barn whistling with wind, thermometer below zero, and not even a blanket over them, they would not call it comfortable.—Our Dumb Animals.

STARCH is now made in the south of France from horse chestnuts, which yield about one-sixth of their weight in pure starch.

IRON

WHY THE

ARION PIANO

IS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS:

The ARION PIANO-FORTE has greater power than any other Piano-Forte manufactured.

It will Stand in Tune Longer, and in its mechanical construction it is more perfect, and, therefore, more durable, than any instrument constructed in the usual modern style.

The arrangement of the Agraffe, the manner of stringing, the peculiar form and arrangement of the Iron Frame

SUPERCEDES ALL OTHERS.

The use of a bar (which is a part of the Iron Frame on a line with the heavy steel stringing,) gives where most needed, and in this respect all other pianoes fail.

The construction of the WREST PLANK, into which the tuning Pins are inserted, is such that it is impossible for the pins to come loosened, or the Wrest Plank itself to split, as is too often the case in other Piano-Fortes.

The Extraordinary Evenness

throughout the scale, the excellent Singing Quality, the

LENGTH AND PURITY OF VIBRATION,

all go to prove what we claim, viz: that the

ARION PIANO-FORTE

Is the Best Instrument Manufactured.

VINEGAR BITTERS

PURELY VEGETABLE.

FREE FROM ALCOHOL.

Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medical properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of Vinegar Bitters?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of the disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of Vinegar Bitters in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflamation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters act on all these cases in a similar manner. By purifying the Blood they remove the cause, and by resolving away the effects of the inflammation (the tubercular deposits) the affected parts receive health, and a permanent cure is effected.

If men will enjoy good health, let them use Vinegar Bitters as a medicine, and avoid the use of alcoholic stimulants in every form.

Grateful Thousands proclaim Vinegar Bitters the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Billious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. Walker's Vinegar Bitters, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with Vinegar Bitters. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Head-ache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Billious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of the Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional diseases, Walker's Vinegar Bitters have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For inflamatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Billious, Remittant and Intermittant Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of Walker's Vinegar Bitters occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

IRON IN THE BLOOD.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG

PERUVIAN SYRUP AN IRON TONIC.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitilizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures a "thousand ills," simply by toning up, Invigorating, and Vitalizing the system. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing

Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints,

—AND—

ALL DISEASES

—ORIGINATING IN A—

BAD STATE OF THE BLOOD

Or accompanied by

DEBILITY

—OR—

A LOW STATE OF THE SYSTEM.

Being free from Alcohol in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, health, and happy men and women; and inviilds cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

A thirty-two page pamphlet containing a succinct history of the Peruvian Syrup; a valuable paper on progress in medical science; a treatise on Iron as a medical agent; testimonials and certificates of cures from distinguished physicians, clergymen, and others, will be sent FREE to any address.
